William Lynes, MD is a Stanford University trained, Board Certified Urologist. Retired now from private practice he is a writer of fiction. In his new suspense novel, Luger Rounds, he takes readers into a hospital where a murderer lies in wait for a next victim.

Luger Rounds: the expression implies ending the life of a patient whose illness requires an overwhelming effort to maintain, while being too sick to survive.

He has also written Short Stories as well as Pirates, Scoundrels, and Kings, a novel of adventure and fantasy set in an illusionary medieval world. He is currently working on a two volume fiction title about an alcoholic urologist set in Galveston, Texas.
